

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and apparatus for conducting a vision-screening or test are provided. The method includes displaying a vision-screening or test on a display device that is initiated by a controller such as a handheld keypad controller, which is operatively associated with the computer-processing unit. The method also includes interactively completing the vision screening or test without the intervention of a health care professional.

L:\SE\TEN\MTIZ200002.app.doc